You Can Make A Profound Impact on a Family

Infertility affects 1 out of 8 couples and surrogacy is the infertility treatment with the highest success rate. Our Intended Parents need to use a surrogate and egg donation for many reasons. From couples who have been diagnosed with infertility due to previous medical conditions like cancer, miscarriages, and congenital uterine abnormalities, to gay men who don't have a womb. Their path to parenthood has usually been trying and emotional. Your labor of love will help them achieve their dream of a family that they otherwise would not have realized.

YOUR TERMS, OUR PROGRAM.

You are the architect of your surrogacy experience. Throughout the screening process, you will share your expectations and values with your matching expert. The principles we prioritize in Matching Matters™ are based on relationship compatibility, medical criteria of the intended parents' clinic, reproductive choices and other specifics requested by you as a surrogate, and the intended parents. Our experts take into account all aspects of the surrogacy process to thoroughly vet compatibility.

We will then present you with a curated, carefully vetted profile of potential intended parents, so you can learn about the family you choose to help. The result? The right match the first time, helping you move closer to your dream of helping a family build their family. Our Shared Decision Making communication framework builds on that foundation to create a meaningful surrogacy partnership with you and your intended parent.

Why Does Matching Matter?

Precise surrogate matching process means shortened timeline and rewarding relationships. The extensive measures we take ensure that your investment of time, finances and emotion are protected. We commit to connecting you with the family you were meant to help.

Local Matching Matters

We know being close to your intended parents and fertility clinic throughout your surrogacy journey might be important to you - for convenience, relationship building and peace of mind. We honor that desire, and because of our reach and popularity with intended parents and IVF clinics across the country, we can address that need. You may find, in your matching process, that factors other than geographic proximity become more important to you. We see great success in both local and long distance surrogacy journeys.

You Define and Choose Your Relationship

Our surrogacy process takes into account your comfort level with contact. Whatever the wants and needs of each party, identifying the right match for the right set of personalities and needs is essential for success. Some surrogates and their intended parents text every day, while other relationships have more defined boundaries. Some surrogates and intended parents continue to have contact after the birth, and others wish each other well and move on. Here's the good news: your relationship with your intended parents can be whatever you want. There is room for it to evolve and change as the journey continues. You decide.

INTENDED PARENT PROFILE

Hello! We're Mark and Austin!

We're a loving, energetic, and outgoing couple that enjoys spending time with family and friends, travelling, and volunteering in our community. Our careers are important to both of us; Mark is a radiologist and Austin is a partner in an entertainment law firm. After nearly 10 years together, we still tell our story of "love at first sight" often, and we consider ourselves to be even more deeply in love than we fell on that fateful day. Over the past decade, we have bonded over our love of music, passion for cooking, and overall zest for trying new things. Personally, Mark enjoys the opera, jiu jitsu, and trying out new restaurants. Austin loves video games, spending time in nature, and playing the piano. We both enjoy living in a big city and the access to the art, culture, and diversity it offers.

We've always wanted to become fathers. Mark spent time early on in his career working in an international hospital while serving in the Peace Corps. Through his experience, he saw for himself the tremendous gift surrogacy can be for a couple that wants children, but can't physically have them. When we first started talking to each other about having a family, we discussed many options, including adoption, however we kept circling back to the idea of working with a surrogate. We both have close friends who have used surrogacy to build their family, and have seen the joy that their decision has brought us all. We knew that this was the right choice for us and decided to start the process to lovingly build a family of our own.

We have a beautiful home in the heart of one of the most gorgeous neighborhoods in Illinois where we are surrounded by parks, museums, lakefront, and have access to some of the best schools in the country. We have one pet, a cat named Minnie who we love to spoil, and are so excited to take this next step towards having a baby of our own... We can't wait to go on fun new adventures exploring the world as a family of three!

We are looking forward to beginning our surrogacy journey, and we want our surrogate to know that we will be there to support them throughout the entirety of our time together. We are so grateful for the women who are surrogates for families like ours, and we owe so much hope and happiness to you for allowing us to have a family of our own. We are fully ready to be as involved as you would like us to be and we can't wait to meet you!

Sincerely,

Mark and Austin
